Will Attempt to Have Maytorena Quit—Campaign Against Carranza.

GEN. FRANCISCO VILLA will reach Juarez tonight or Tuesday morning with a carload of sacked gold and silver, according to Americans who arrived from Chihuahua Monday morning.

He reached Chihuahua Sunday morning with the car of money, which was closely guarded by a number of soldiers. The money included quantities of coin and bullion, the Americans say, and was packed in big and little sacks and piled into the car.

Villa was expected to leave Chihuahua Monday morning for the border where he had no doubt intended to deposit in local banks, to pay for supplies and to buy arms.

Here to Halt Maytorena. Fearing complications with the United States as a result of the continual firing across the line at Naco, Gen. Villa has come north from Mexico City for a conference with Maytorena. It is declared that the Sonora leader, by continuing to retain his forces in a position where their fire can cross the line has defied specific orders of president Gutierrez and he will be forced to live up to these orders even if it becomes necessary to send a force against him. It is declared that Maytorena will be forced to obey the convention is the substance of advice received here Monday by Villa agents.

Villa agents here declared Monday that he had no advice regarding the arrival of Villa at Chihuahua. An American who arrived here Sunday, however, stated that the train upon which Villa traveled had been delayed in Chihuahua and that the latter remained in Chihuahua, Villa, according to the American, is accompanied by a few of his staff officers. It was not known definitely if George Carothers, special agent of the state department, had arrived here.

Villa Trying to Stop Fire. According to the American, Villa and Gutierrez are taking every precaution to prevent firing across the international boundary line. A message was sent by Gutierrez to Maytorena, advising him to discontinue the firing, giving positive orders that there must be no more firing across the line by Maytorena troops and demanding that he discontinue the firing. According to the American from Mexico City, Villa has more than once expressed himself in the most capitalistic manner as to anything possible to prevent firing across the line.

Plenty of Troops. Mexico City, divided equally between the followers of Villa and Zapata. The nearest Carranza force is at Ometene, 40 kilometers east from the city, on the line to Veracruz. Zapata has personally taken charge of the Puebla campaign and has 15,000 men. Gen. Francisco Cos, the Carranza commander of the town, has 10,000 men.

Nine train loads of Villa troops, numbering 12,000 men, have left for Guadalupe. They have already arrived at a point a few miles from the city where they were met by Julian Medina, newly appointed governor of Jalisco, and his forces.

Plenty of Artillery. When Villa entered the city of Mexico he took with him 10 field pieces, besides many machine guns. Most of the big guns have been sent north to assist in the Guadalupe campaign.

Gen. Felipe Angeles has been put in charge of the campaign down the railroad to Veracruz. He is assembling a large force and is expected to actively take the field about the first of the year. His campaign will not be contingent upon the fall of Puebla, but will be made independently.

Zapata Troops Orderly. According to the American from the City of Mexico, Zapata entered the capital of Mexico with but $2.25 in Mexican currency in his pocket. His men were badly in need of food. Despite this, and the additional fact that they were heavily armed, and had the city at their mercy, there was no looting. The soldiers asked small amounts of money with which to buy something to eat, but in no instance did they attempt to use force.

Carranza Force Disorganized. The American states that the Carranza forces are thoroughly disorganized. There has been a fight between the Carrancistas each time coming over to the Villa forces or escaping to the mountains. In Mexico City it is believed that both Puebla and Guadalupe will fall in a few days, and that the complete elimination of Carranza will be the work of but a few months.

Man's Right To Earn Living Counts Most, Says Union Official

Denver, Colo., Dec. 14.—The attitude of the United Mine Workers of America toward acts of violence done by members of the organization was probed today by a federal commission on industrial relations. E. L. Doyle, district secretary-treasurer of the union, continued his testimony.

The subject of violence was suggested by commissioner Weinstein. In reply to his questions, Doyle said there was no investigation of the moral character of applicants for membership. "Then if I were a burglar or a hold up man I could enter the union," inquired Weinstein.

"If you were such a man, and I had the right to join the union, I would be a member," retorted Doyle. "But if a man has a record," insisted Weinstein.

"A man has a record, and he would have paid the penalty before he applied for union membership. The union should not take from him the right to earn his daily bread."

Then you don't investigate moral character of applicants?"

"What has a man's moral character to do with the right of his family to have bread?" replied Doyle.

Blames Americans.

"As a matter of fact, I do not know that the rights of American citizens have been violated. It seems to me that it would be well for the state department to investigate this in order to fix the responsibility. I remember similar instances at El Paso when the Mexican forces were attacking there. In that case those shot were for the most part the imprudent and curious individuals who flocked to witness the fighting as if it had been a spectacular show arranged for their benefit."

"As to the use of force, of which Mr. Bryan talks, that is something the gravity of which I fear he does not fully appreciate. He says it would not mean an invasion of our territory or a violation of our national sovereignty. It would, and moreover, it would certainly be an act directly against the Constitution which we now hold the town and in favor of the Villistas, who (Continued on Page 2, Column 1.)
